

Author Visits to Schools

by Author Jane R. Wood

Do some of your students find history boring? Do you have trouble getting boys to read? Would you like your students to become more aware of the environment? Then I can help.

In my hour-long Author Visit, I spend the first 30 minutes talking about how and why I write my books and how I do the research. I then focus on the writing process, with special emphasis on editing and re-writing. As a published author, I give them a unique perspective on how the writing skills they're learning in school apply to the real world.

I also share photographs and anecdotes about the people, places and animals featured in my books. I then devote 15 minutes to answer their questions, and leave 15 minutes at the end to sign and personalize books for students who want to purchase their own copies.

Your students will discover how history can be part of an adventure, and why concern for endangered animals inspires young people to want to "do something" to make a difference.

My visit is much more meaningful for the students if they have read one of my books before I present. Schools may purchase my books at a discount when ordered directly from me at www.janewoodbooks.com. For students who want to purchase their own copies, I can e-mail you a form that you can send home to parents in advance of my visit.
